

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-07-30	West Virginia News Service Phone Company Fights FBI to Protect Customers' Records Charleston, WV – An American telephone company is fighting an FBI request for information about its customers, saying it's an overreach of surveillance powers under the Patriot Act. But gag orders that accompany a controversial law-enforcement tool known as national security letters make it difficult to report anything about the case. Comments from Matt Zimmerman, attorney for the Electronic Frontier Foundation, who is representing the telecom company. Additional comments from Brenda Green, executive director of the ACLU of West Virginia.	Detailed Report 9-0	10 57,860
2012-07-26	New York News Connection New Yorkers Signing on to Internet Freedom New York, NY – A proposed Declaration of Internet Freedom is gaining momentum as New York groups and individuals are joining people around the world in endorsing the document. And its backers – calling this “the Summer of Internet Freedom” – are encouraging barbecues as a way to spread the word. Comments from Josh Levy (LEE-vee), internet campaign director, Free Press; Andrew Rasiej (rih-ZHAY), chairman, NY Tech Meetup.	Detailed Report 60-5	128 506,478
2012-07-23	Arizona News Connection Phone Company Fights FBI to Protect Customers' Records Phoenix, AZ – An American telephone company is fighting an FBI request for information about its customers, saying it's an overreach of surveillance powers under the Patriot Act. But gag orders that accompany a controversial law-enforcement tool known as national security letters (NSL) make it difficult to report anything about the case. Comments from Matt Zimmerman, attorney for the Electronic Freedom Foundation, who is representing the telecom company.	Detailed Report 12-4	5,400
2012-07-23	Colorado News Connection Phone Company Fights FBI to Protect Customers' Records Denver, CO – An American telephone company is fighting an FBI request for information about its customers, saying it's an overreach of surveillance powers under the Patriot Act. But gag orders that accompany a controversial law-enforcement tool known as national security letters make it difficult to report anything about the case. Comments from Matt Zimmerman, attorney for the Electronic Freedom Foundation, who is representing the telecom company.	Detailed Report 28-0	2 61,100
2012-07-23	New York News Connection Phone Company Fights FBI to Protect Customers' Records New York, NY – An American telephone company is fighting an FBI request for information about its customers, saying it's an overreach of surveillance powers under the Patriot Act. But gag orders that accompany a controversial law-enforcement tool known as national security letters make it difficult to report anything about the case. Comments from Matt Zimmerman, attorney for the Electronic Frontier Foundation, who is representing the telecom company.	Detailed Report 59-7	1 511,970

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-07-20	California News Service Phone Company Fights FBI to Protect Customers' Records San Francisco, CA – An American telephone company is fighting an FBI request for information about its customers, saying it's an overreach of surveillance powers under the Patriot Act. But gag orders that accompany a controversial law-enforcement tool known as national security letters make it difficult to report anything about the case. Comments from Matt Zimmerman, attorney for the San-Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation, who is representing the telecom company.	Detailed Report 14-3	12 58,865
2012-06-11	Commonwealth News Service Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? Boston, MA – The Walt Disney Company is going to ban junk food advertising on its children's programming, an announcement that won the praise of First Lady Michelle Obama who's an advocate of healthy food initiatives. Some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 26-0	1
2012-06-11	Connecticut News Service Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? Hartford, CT – The Walt Disney Company is going to ban junk food advertising on its children's programming, an announcement that won the praise of First Lady Michelle Obama who's an advocate of healthy food initiatives. Some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 2-0	2
2012-06-11	Kentucky News Connection Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? Frankfort, KY – Madison Avenue got a wake-up call when the Walt Disney Company announced it will ban junk food advertising on its children's programming. Along with First Lady Michelle Obama's healthy food initiatives, the Disney move is being praised, but some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 12-2	1 22,467
2012-06-11	Maryland News Connection Disney Bans Junk Food Ads – A Parent's Dream Come True? Washington, D.C. – Madison Avenue got a wake-up call when the Walt Disney Company announced it will ban junk food advertising on its children's programming on TV, radio and websites. Along with First Lady Michelle Obama's healthy food initiatives, the Disney move is being praised. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 15-11	112,066

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present
Issue: Media Reform
Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-06-11	New Hampshire News Connection Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? Concord, NH – The Walt Disney Company is going to ban junk food advertising on its children's programming, an announcement that won the praise of First Lady Michelle Obama who's an advocate of healthy food initiatives. Some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 4-4	4
2012-06-11	Nevada News Service Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? Las Vegas, NV – The Walt Disney Company is going to ban junk food advertising on its children's programming, an announcement that won the praise of First Lady Michelle Obama who's an advocate of healthy food initiatives. Some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 9-4	1 143,009
2012-06-11	New York News Connection Disney Junk Food Ban – A Dream Come True? New York, NY – Madison Avenue got a wake-up call when the Walt Disney Company announced it will ban junk food advertising on its children's programming. Along with New York mayor Michael Bloomberg's proposal to ban the sale of large, sugary soft drinks and First Lady Michelle Obama's healthy food initiatives, the Disney move is being praised, but some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments. Other Usage Number Clear Channel (460 stations) NY Statewide 42	Detailed Report 93-2	16 3,947,033
2012-06-11	Washington News Service Will Disney's Junk-Food Ad Ban Help Curb Child Obesity? Seattle, WA – The Walt Disney Company is going to ban junk food advertising on its children's programming, an announcement that won the praise of First Lady Michelle Obama who's an advocate of healthy food initiatives. Some are suggesting much more needs to be done. Comments from Makani (muh-KAHN-ee) Themba, director, Communities Creating Healthy Environments.	Detailed Report 27-14	119,600
2012-05-15	New Mexico News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Albuquerque, NM – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the Albuquerque-based Media Literacy Project and the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the U. S. Senate later this month. Comments from Hakim (ha-KEEM) Bellamy, strategic communications director, Media Literacy Project; and Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, Electronic Frontier Foundation.	Detailed Report 10-0	9

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-05-15	Ohio News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Columbus, OH – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January after an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 26-12	2 166,492
2012-05-11	Oregon News Service In OR Prisons, a Mother's Day "Hangup" Portland, OR – People making their Mother's Day calls from behind bars this weekend will be paying unfairly high prices, according to groups behind a nationwide protest over price-gouging and kickbacks in most states' prison telephone systems, including Oregon's. Comments from attorney Lee Petro (PEET-ro), Drinker, Biddle & Reath, LLP; and Steven Renderos (ren-DARE-ose), national organizer, Center for Media Justice.	Detailed Report 30-10	3 97,404
2012-05-11	Washington News Service In WA Prisons, a Mother's Day "Disconnect" Olympia, WA – People making their Mother's Day calls from behind bars this weekend will be paying unfairly high prices, according to groups behind a nationwide protest over price-gouging and kickbacks in most states' prison phone systems. Washington's prison phone rates are among the nation's highest. Comments from attorney Lee Petro (PEET-ro), Drinker, Biddle & Reath, LLP; and Steven Renderos (ren-DARE-ose), national organizer, Center for Media Justice.	Detailed Report 25-4	12 121,200
2012-05-10	Commonwealth News Service A Mother's Day "Hangup" For Prisoners Boston, MA – Inmates calling their mothers from Massachusetts prisons on Mother's Day (this Sunday) will be paying unfairly high prices, according to groups behind a nationwide protest over price-gouging and kickbacks in the prison telephone systems of most states. Comments from Lee Petro (PEET-ro), attorney, Drinker Biddle & Reath, LLP; Bonnie Tenneriello (ten-er-RILL-oh), staff attorney, Prisoners Legal Services of Massachusetts; Steven Renderos (ren-DARE-ohs), national organizer, Center for Media Justice.	Detailed Report 143-116	183 10,977

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-05-10	Connecticut News Service A Mother's Day "Hangup" For Prisoners Hartford, CT – Inmates calling their mothers from Connecticut's prisons on Mother's Day (this Sunday) will be paying unfairly high prices, according to groups behind a nationwide protest over what they say is price-gouging and kickbacks in the prison telephone systems of most states. Comments from Lee Petro (PEET-ro), attorney, Drinker Biddle & Reath, LLP; Bonnie Tenneriello (ten-er-RILL-oh), staff attorney, Prisoners Legal Services of Massachusetts; Steven Renderos (ren-DARE-ohs), national organizer, Center for Media Justice.	Detailed Report 2-1	2
2012-05-10	Nevada News Service A Mother's Day "Hangup" For Prisoners Reno, NV – Inmates calling their mothers from Nevada's prisons on Mother's Day (this Sunday) will be paying unfairly high prices, according to groups behind a nationwide protest over what they say is price-gouging and kickbacks in the prison telephone systems of most states. Comments from Lee Petro (PEET-ro), attorney, Drinker Biddle & Reath, LLP; Bonnie Tenneriello (ten-er-RILL-oh), staff attorney, Prisoners Legal Services of Massachusetts; Steven Renderos (ren-DARE-ohs), national organizer, Center for Media Justice.	Detailed Report 7-4	1 77,971
2012-05-08	Arizona News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Phoenix, AZ – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA (SO-pah) and PIPA (PIP-uh) – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the US Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 17-5	3 18,900
2012-05-07	Colorado News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Denver, CO – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the US Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 25-0	2 3,700

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-05-07	Greater Dakota News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Yankton, SD – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the US Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 18-15	1 33,160
2012-05-07	Virginia News Connection Fighting Cyber-Terrorism: Attack on Civil Liberties? Richmond, VA – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January after an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 15-1	3 63,465
2012-05-04	California News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns San Francisco, CA – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the US Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 31-13	74 185,004
2012-05-04	Commonwealth News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Boston, MA – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 28-1	35,977
2012-05-04	Connecticut News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Hartford, CT – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPA (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPA will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 1-0	1

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-05-04	New Hampshire News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Concord, NY – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPACT (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPACT will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 9-9	3 4,496
2012-05-04	Nevada News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Las Vegas, NV – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPACT (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPACT will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 150-7	3 77,971
2012-05-04	New York News Connection Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns New York, NY – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the San Francisco-based Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPACT (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPACT will be considered in the U.S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 65-11	72,813
2012-05-04	West Virginia News Service Internet Freedom Worries Pivot to Privacy Concerns Charleston, WV – Legislation aimed at fighting cyber-terrorism may have the unintended effect of violating the privacy of millions of Americans online, according to the Electronic Frontier Foundation. A bill called CISPACT (SIS-pah) is a successor to SOPA and PIPA – anti-piracy legislation that was defeated in January following an outcry over censorship concerns. CISPACT will be considered in the U. S. Senate later this month. Comments from Rainey Reitman (RIGHT-man), activism director, EFF.	Detailed Report 4-0	2 16,796
2012-05-01	California News Service May Day Protests Planned in Bay Area, L.A. May Day protests and rallies are taking place today in the Bay Area and Los Angeles. Occupy Wall Street has called on California's Occupy groups to strike against the 1 percent and act in solidarity with other groups. Comments from Steven Angell, organizer with Occupy Oakland; and Jared Iorio (eye-OR-ree-oh), organizer with Occupy Los Angeles.	Detailed Report 4-2	46 2,341

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-04-16	New Mexico News Connection Verizon's Proposed Plan Could Threaten Digital Access in New Mexico Albuquerque, NM – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Andrea Quijada(ohn-DRAY-uh kee-HAH-dah), executive director of the Media Literacy Project; and Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union.	Detailed Report 8-0	14
2012-04-09	Arizona News Connection Threat to AZ High-Speed Internet Access? Phoenix, AZ – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL casa-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 15-10	43 14,500
2012-04-09	Commonwealth News Service The Threat to Massachusetts' High-Speed Internet Access Boston, MA – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-uh-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 31-4	12 25,000
2012-04-09	Connecticut News Service The Threat to Connecticut's High-Speed Internet Access Hartford, CT – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-uh-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 8-6	7 144,732

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-04-09	Keystone State News Connection A Threat to PA High-Speed Internet Access? Harrisburg, PA – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-uh-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 32-22	12 35,115
2012-04-09	New Hampshire News Connection Groups: High Speed Access in Jeopardy with Verizon Monopoly Proposal Concord, NH – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-ah-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 7-7	12 4,496
2012-04-09	Nevada News Service The Threat to Nevada's High-Speed Internet Access Reno, NV – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-uh-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 11-4	15 77,971
2012-04-09	Northern Rockies News Service Proposed Wireless Network Partnership Raises Consumer Watchdog Hackles Boise, ID – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural areas - a big concern for Idaho. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-ah-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 45-39	25 399,039

Public News Service Story Log for 02/01/2012 - present

Issue:

Media Reform

Date	Title-Banner	Media Outlet Pickup	Website/Online Version Audience Size*
2012-04-09	New York News Connection The Threat to NY High-Speed Internet Access New York, NY – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-ah-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 67-11	307 522,116
2012-04-09	Virginia News Connection Threat to High Speed Internet Access in VA Richmond, VA – Consumer groups are fighting a proposed partnership deal between Verizon and a group of cable companies under the umbrella of SpectrumCo. They say the result of this planned consolidation of wireless spectrum will be less competition, higher prices, and a growing digital divide for rural and other under-served areas. Comments from Parul Desai (pah-ROOL deh-SIGH), communications policy counsel, Consumers Union; and Edyael Casaperalta (ed'-yah-EL cass'-ah-per-ALL-ta), research associate, Center for Rural Strategies.	Detailed Report 22-15	18 173,638
TOTAL	43 Stories	1226-385	993 7,931,122

*Note: the "Audience Size:" numbers are a piece of the overall picture of usage. They reflect only the media outlets that make this info public. Also, some outlets (especially Spanish media) take content from the public site, where it is virtually impossible-forgive the pun-to track the substantial online reposting & repurposing.